

PROJECT MANAGEMENT CHALLENGE 2006

Third Annual NASA Project Management Conference

BIOGRAPHY

Michael A. Spatola
Vice President and Senior Program Manager,
SAIC

Biography:

Mr. Spatola is a Vice President and Senior Program Manager at SAIC where he is currently the program manager for the company's internal effort to improve its development and management of program managers. Prior to this effort, he has served in a variety of program management positions within the company including program manager and deputy program manager for a number of its largest efforts.

Mr. Spatola joined SAIC after more than 25 years in the Air Force, primarily in program management. He was the program manager for an extensive range of programs. His last program management position within the Air Force was as the Program Director for the Defense Meteorological Satellite Program.

Mr. Spatola is a certified Project Management Professional and a DoD Level III certified program manager.